

SPACE PLANNING: The Benefits Of Working With A Space Planner

Creating a space that encourages productivity among employees and is comfortable for visitors should be an exciting and rewarding experience.

Your office space planning and design determine your workflow and the efficiency of your team to accomplish their goals. Whether you're designing a brand new workspace or renovating an existing office, creating a space that encourages productivity among your team and is comfortable for visitors should be an exciting and rewarding experience.

It can also be quite overwhelming. The Office Furniture NOW! team of designers are highly trained to create the most efficient solutions for your office. Space planning and design are the foundation for a successful aesthetic and can benefit your business in several ways:

Aligns Workspace with Business Goals

The design and furnishings of your office should be conducive to the objectives of your company. A newsroom may be best suited for an open office to encourage collaboration, whereas a call center may need many cubicles in order to minimize outside noise during calls.

A skilled office planner will look objectively at the entire organization, including the office procedures, workflow and technology requirements, to develop a layout that best fits the company culture and workstyle of the staff.

©2016 Office Furniture NOW!

SPACE PLANNING: The Benefits Of Working With A Space Planner

An office planning professional can provide the proper guidance needed to maximize your space and offer viable solutions to fill any gaps in your plan.

Helps Maximize Space

A decade ago, offices were filled with the bulky furniture necessary to support older more cumbersome technology. The modern office is more streamlined and open with lower profile electronics. Contemporary furnishings offer more flexibility within your office layout. An office planning professional can provide the proper guidance needed to maximize your space with the furnishings you have selected, and offer viable solutions to fill in any gaps in your plan.

Improves Employee Productivity

You should periodically re-examine your work flow and see if shifting some things around within your workspace has the potential to boost productivity among staff. Office planning services can provide some valuable solutions. Modern, visually appealing office design that incorporates ergonomics can significantly improve performance and look effortless to the viewer. You know you have a great design when it actually works to boost efficiency by enhancing communication in the office. The right changes to the layout can help group relevant teams closer together for easier sharing of information and ideas.

It has been stated that the open plan workplace may be stifling productivity. This revelation comes from recent studies by the Steelcase Workspace Futures team, stating that many employees in exposed settings seek more privacy to conduct day-to-day tasks at a faster, more efficient pace. Space planners can help companies with open-plan offices find innovative solutions to this dilemma by providing the right balance of interaction and privacy.

©2016 Office Furniture NOW!

SPACE PLANNING: The Benefits Of Working With A Space Planner

Saves Time & Money

Space planning can be an arduous endeavor, particularly for medium and small-sized businesses that don't have the means and in-house resources for a team of interior designers.

We provide these services to help speed up the design process, which translates to saving money while minimizing stress. Space planners can help maximize your office space, provide growing room and keep you from moving too soon at more expense.

While the initial cost of revamping an office may seem high initially, reconfiguring has the potential for an impressive return on the investment.

While the cost of revamping an office may seem high initially, reconfiguring has the potential for an impressive return on that investment. Improving the use of space will afford room for expansion, promoting efficiency among employees.

Office Furniture NOW! has an experienced space planning & design team to help you ascertain the best selection and arrangement of office furniture for your space to ensure the continued productivity of your business.

©2016 Office Furniture NOW!